Teenager Identity Kit

Personality

A typical Swedish teenager are a little bit lazy, spoiled and we can get affected very easy by our friends.

We have shorter days in school than all of the other countries in the Erasmus project and still we're complaining the most.

And we think that we are spoiled. We don't help our parents to clean the house so often. We're packing up the dishwasher around 2 times per weak and some mornings we fix our beds to. But we don't vacuum if we don't must and never clean the bathroom either.

Family

The family means a lot to a Swedish teenager , because who else will pay for all the stuff we want. They also give us love, so the family just means a lot to us.

They help us with homework, they cook our food and so on.

We think that we are very curled today because we always get the help we want and we get almost everything we want.

In Sweden you often have brothers or sisters but the most common is to have one brother or sister.

Technology

We carry our phones wherever we go. If we don't have our phone, we get very nervous and uncomfortable.

If we are uncomfortable in public we pick up our phone, it's a way to escape reality for a while.

At home we have iPads, TVs, computers, phones esc

Clothes

The Swedish teenagers likes to wear trendy clothes, for example the girls like to wear boots even on sunny days and a trend that came back is to wear jeans with loss fit around the boots.

The Boys usually wear sneakers and clothes from popular brands or sport brands like Adidas and Nike.

Social Media

We have all kinds of different social medias. Some examples are snapchat, Twitter, ask.fm, Facebook and Instagram.

We check our social medias at least 15 times/day.

There's always one social media that's more popular than the others which everybody has. This social media is a different one each month.

Spare Time

In our spare time we do a lot of sports. Most of us do more than one sport.

The most common sports for girls are football, gymnastics and horse riding.

The most common sports for boys are football, ice hockey and floor ball.

But not all of us do sports some play instruments and some of us don't do anything at all.

When we don't have an activity we hang out with our friends.

Friends

A Swedish teenager have many friends, but we often have one or two that we are really close to.

We hang out with our friends a lot. When we're not with our friends we basically lock ourselves inside our rooms.

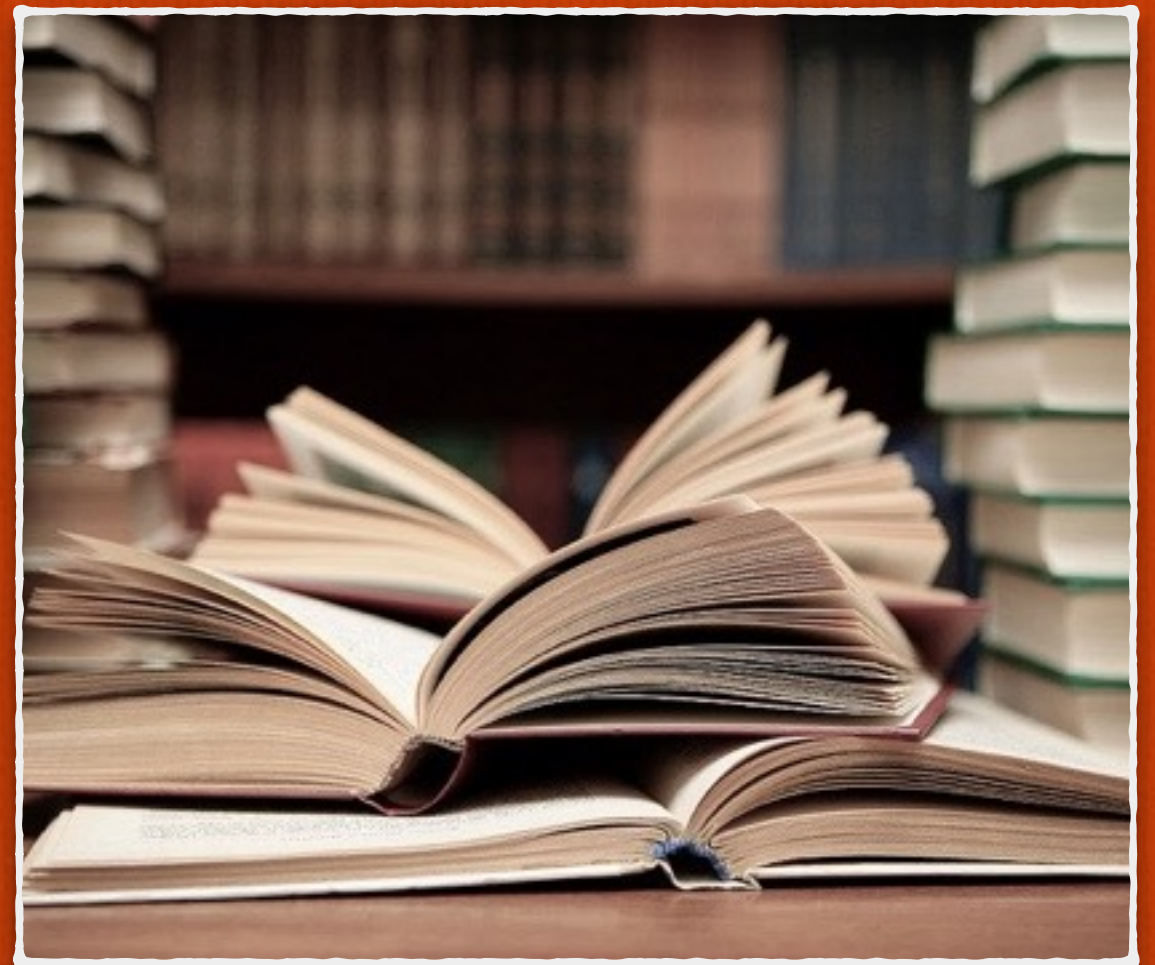

When we hang out with our friends we are often in the mall or in the centre of the city.

Problems

A problem for a typical Swedish teenager is time. Since we often have a lot of spare time activities, it can be hard to get time for your school work. Even if we try to tell ourselves to put school first, it can be really hard.

School it self can be a real problem. When you turn into a teenager, you have a lot more pressure on you than before. You need to study much more than you needed when you were younger and it can be easy to compare your own grades to someone else's. If another person has higher grades than you, it is easy to feel very bad about it.

Music

We listen to the Swedish top chart on Spotify. We listen to popular music, that is played on the radio. The music is often pop or dub step. We listen to music in the car, at the school, when we walk, at home and on the beach.
